Impressions/Feedback:

“My name is Eleni Vogiatzi and I participated in the CSMUM conference of 2023. I was in the Disarmament and International Security Committee (DISEC) and I represented the country of Switzerland. The conference lasted two days, and it took place over the weekend of the 14-15 of October. The topics we had to discuss and debate upon were “Examining North Korea’s nuclear arsenal in light of their recent tactical tests” and “Supporting the disarmament, rehabilitation, and reintegration of former child soldiers in Central Africa”. It was truly one most unforgettable MUN experience, from which I was able to learn so much and develop a magnificent, well-rounded perspective of the world, which have benefited both my academic career and my social circle.

First and foremost, I have to point out the simple fact that I was able to conduct research and delve deeply into two incredibly intriguing and thought-provoking topics of a military and political, but also sociocultural and humanitarian nature. I was sensitized and sincerely touched to find out more about the inhumane conditions children in certain developing countries are forced to endure, and how the everyday things most of us take for granted are a rare privilege for them. Furthermore, I was able to meet some outstanding people with common interests as me, even from other countries! My fellow co-delegates as well as the chairs of my committee and I developed strong bonds through discussions in depth and length about captivating matters as well as through laughter and fun. Some of the relationships I built there still blossom up until today. To be more specific, I have yet to stop talking via messages with a co-delegate who lives in Zambia!

All in all, I would like to state how lucky I feel to have been presented with the opportunity to participate in such a wonderful event, and underline my hope to take part in many more this year and the ones after it. Words cannot portray adequately how much I cherish the memories I made, and I would wholeheartedly recommend to anyone who wishes to have the life-changing time of their lives to give it a shot!”
